WALTER JOHNS TO RETIRE FROM TEACHING

WALTER JOHNS, who returned to teaching when he stepped down from the presidency of the University in 1969, has decided to retire from his position as Professor of Classics. He will continue as chairman of the University Bequest Committee and as a member of the Archives Committee.

Dr. Johns will also have more time to devote to the book he is writing on the history of the University, which covers the years between 1906, when the first Legislature at its first session passed an Act authorizing the establishment of a university, and 1969. He has already reached chapter 13 which describes the last half of the presidency of ROBERT NEWTON (1942-1950) and the building boom of the years following the Second World War.

President MAX WYMAN has said of Dr. Johns that "he was the last of the universalists, the last man who at one time knew every facet of the operations of the University." He joined the staff here in 1938 as Lecturer in Classics after a period on staff at Waterloo College in Ontario. He had received his doctorate from Cornell University in 1934. His presidency, from 1959 to 1969, covered the years of the University's most spectacular growth, in numbers of buildings, in enrolments, and in stature among Canadian universities.
